

Cambridge B1 Preliminary picture description #1

This picture was probably taken in a museum or an art gallery. In the foreground, you can see a little boy wearing dungarees looking rather afraid. And in the centre of the picture, you can see a sculpture, probably Greek. The sculpture has only one arm. And in the background, you can see some pictures, which look like modern art. In the background to the right, you can see a woman with her hands behind her back probably looking at one of the pictures. The little boy seems to be imitating the posture of the statue probably because he's bored. I don't know if it's a good idea for children to go to the museums because they really don't know what they're looking at and particularly in the background, as I mentioned, in the background you can see pictures that look like modern art. The child probably doesn't understand anything about modern art or about art itself. He's probably more interested in the watch he's wearing on his right hand.

To hear this read by a native from England click on the link: https://youtu.be/mI-FLb_dpVg